The Wheel

This voyage, begun
August 28, 1963, and ended May 27, 1964, is forever recorded in this,
the 20th volume of our log . . .

Ayden High School
Ayden, North Carolina

and through the Sea of Learning,

The crew aboard the ship, the officers on deck, the captain at the helm—thus we began our log. Each new day and each new page brought with it successes and failures, heartaches, and joys. Success came as the reward of many hard hours of study, as the recognition for a job well done, and as the sense of achievement for devoted service. The rougher seas and storms brought with them failures and disappointments. These, too, we will remember, for without them who could have appreciated the sunlit seas and the strong, sure gust of success which caught our sails and brought us closer to our destination.

The lighter moments came with weekend shore leaves as we weighed anchor and closed our ship's log to make entries in our personal diaries—the big ballgame of the year... the tense moment before some lucky girl became queen... the competitive air that filled the school during campaign week... the dances after the ballgames when we shared the success of victory or boosted the morales of our boys when they lost... the special date with the one who made the pulse rate rise and the heart beat faster... the hours of preparation for the high school play that all seemed worthwhile when the big night finally arrived... the night of the Junior-Senior when every girl was the belle of the ball... and graduation.

So many memories... this, then is our ship's log... a treasure chest of souvenirs to cherish long after our ship is docked and our voyage is ended.

bound for the Land of Knowledge, we sail.

To the Captain . . .

MR. EDWARD N. WARREN, our principal, we, the 1964 WHEEL staff dedicate this volume of our annual. His enthusiam for improvement, his strong qualities of leadership, and his high example of moral character have served as an inspiration to us all. Mr. Warren has steered our ship through many a stormy sea. The success of our voyage has been due a large measure to his ceaseless devotion to service.

The captain and the officers who steered our ship through turbulent seas . . . who stood always as a beacon in the night to guide us.

Junior-Senior Prom

April 5—the night when we donned our brass and lace for the ship's biggest event—the 1963 Junior-Senior Prom! Under the looming grandeur of the Eiffel Tower a tense murmur permeated the dimly lit ballroom as we awaited the late arrival of the I. F. C. 's, a top pop combo. They arrived! Thus began one of the liveliest proms in the history of the U. S. S. Ayden High School. Even teachers put aside formalities and gave way to the hypnotic beat of the music. At 12 bells the formal attire was changed for weejuns and madras as everyone boarded lifeboats for one last fling at private parties. In the early hours of the morning we wandered slowly home, the music of the dance still echoing in our thoughts. The song is ended, but the melody lingers on.

In 1963 the Tornadoes twisted thru a very successful season with an 8-1-1 record. They tied Havelock and their only loss was suffered at the hands of the Conference Champions to be, the Farmville Red Devils. "Tornado Lassies"

The Tornado Lassies had one of the finest records in their history at the time the WHEEL went to press. They had played eleven games, won ten of them, and been defeated only once. Their fine team spirit, many hours of practice, outstanding coaching, and excellent leadership of their co-captains, made this a memorable season.

IT NEVER ENDS!

A big step is in store for you! When you are awarded your high school diploma, you will have completed only one step in your education cycle. As in high school, you will find your future education challenging and rewarding in molding your careers. Additional educational opportunities are available and the responsibility is yours to take advantage of them.

Leading members of the business world have stressed that what a man knows after completion of high school is not nearly so important to his ultimate success as what he studies later. In this age of changing times, the learning process never ends. The emphasis on learning after high school offers a promise of a good future for today's graduates.
